

Get Turned On!

TLC's "The Little Couple" Choose Sugar Land's Home Theater Experts

What's "every man's dream?" According to Bill Klein, it's all about the electronics! Bill and his wife, Jen Arnold, are the stars of TLC's "The Little Couple." This charming couple's just like any average newlyweds—except for the fact that they're both under four feet tall! Bill and Jen face the struggles of two little people in an average-sized world, while meeting the challenges of a move to a new city (Houston!), negotiating the building of a new home, and weighing the risks of planning a family—all while navigating the ups and downs of any new marriage. On Tuesday, July 26th, fans watched as Richard Machemehl of our own Home Theater Evolutions helped Bill design the Savant home entertainment system of his dreams. Bill says, "The team at Home Theater Evolutions is great. From integrating the latest technology to make our home comfortable and convenient to the service they provided to help us understand how to use it, Home Theater Evolutions was simply the best choice. Thank you, Rich, Scott, Luis and the rest of the HTE team!"

While Jen went to work at Texas Children's Hospital, Bill took a walk through the Home Theater Evolutions showroom. Owners Richard Machemehl and Scott Crain have made high-tech solutions user-friendly in this inviting space. After showing Bill a television hidden behind a Vutec art screen and some "hidden" in-wall speakers, Richard demonstrated how Bill could control his televisions, music, lights, and security system from an iPad using the Savant system. Scott says, "The Savant control and automation system's a great example of quality and value. Everything—from the design of the docking system to the user-friendly interface—is designed to be intelligent, affordable, and extremely easy to use...the way the best technology should be. Now Bill turns on his TVs and sets the lighting scene from his iPhone."

Since Jen loves to entertain, Richard and Scott set up twelve audio zones in the house using DesignQ speakers, so Bill and Jen can get music anywhere from Pandora (or other internet music providers), iTunes, or their computers and control it through their iPads. The same system controls the lighting for the perfect party setting. Home Theater Evolutions will be coming back out to extend the automation system to control the pool equipment.

"I'll never go to the movie theater again...I'll never have to," says Bill and it's true! There are many new televisions in the new house, but his favorite is the 100 inch projection television in his home theater room. Richard says, "We used a special screen and embedded the DesignQ speakers behind it so they're totally hidden and the sound really is movie-theater quality. We really enjoy getting to know our customers so we can create exactly the experience they've been wanting."

Don't worry if you missed the big episode! Look for the clip titled "Every Man's Dream" in the episode "New House Delays" at www.tlc.com, iTunes, or on the Home Theater Evolutions Facebook page. Better yet, visit the Home Theater Evolutions Showroom and see all the amazing, intelligent, and affordable solutions for yourself!

Home Theater Evolutions
281-980-2300
3157 Highway 6 at Williams Trace www.htevo.com